HENRY VIVIAN.

We earnestly ask the reader's attention to the important work which is being done by the Labour Association.

The work we set ourselves to do is not so much to raise our working people, as to help them to raise themselves. We think this is more effectual than alms-giving, and as hopeful as any movement of our time.

To advance the objects of the Association, the Committee desire the assistance of friends—(1) By helping to organise Meetings, Lectures, Conferences, Distribution of Literature amongst the Societies, Trade Unions, or Associations with which they may be connected; (2) By supplying the Committee with any information concerning the starting or position of any Co-operative Productive Societies in their district; (3) By becoming subscribers to the Association's funds of any sum not less than One Shilling per annum. Two Shillings and Sixpence a year entitles members of the Association to its literature post free.

We respectfully invite all friends of social progress to become subscribers to the Association, and to assist in the extension of its work.

THE EXECUTIVE.

Cheques should be made payable to the order of the "Labour Association," and crossed London and County Bank, Covent Garden Branch.

FIFTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT,

FOR YEAR ENDING JUNE 30TH, 1900.

INTRODUCTION.

THE year 1899-1900 has been one of considerable difficulty to a propagandist and educational body like the Labour Association. Naturally, the attention of all classes of the community has been largely taken up by international affairs, and industrial problems have taken a second place.

Notwithstanding these obstacles, however, the Labour Association has, during the year under review, succeeded in no small degree in securing the attention of the public to its principles.

It is gratifying to know that our work is becoming more widely appreciated by those interested in industrial problems. It is being realised more and more that our propaganda is important and valuable, not only on account of the actual progress made in the application of our principles, but also because of the improved industrial spirit which is inculcated by our teaching amongst all concerned, even in workshops, where for one reason or another the actual system cannot yet be put into operation.

Many Lectures and Conferences have been organised during the year, and the warm appreciation of our educational work by men of influence and wide experience on industrial questions, who have attended them, is most encouraging.

Our new publications include "The Fourteenth Annual Report;" "A Better Way, being some Facts and Suggestions as to introducing the Partnership of Labour with Capital into Established Businesses," by Aneurin Williams; "Report of Proceedings in Connection with the Labour Association's Industrial Conference at Newcastle-on-Tyne," which includes the Papers read at the same; "Co-operative Production, with Special Reference to Agriculture," by P. J. Hannon (Assistant Secretary of the Irish Agricultural Organization Society); "Can Co-partnership Furnish a Satisfactory Solution of Industrial Problems?" by Hon. T. A. Brassey; "Co-operative Stores and Labour Co-partnership," by Henry Vivian; "Using and Safe-guarding the Provident Fund in a Co-partnership Productive Society," by Aneurin Williams; "Co-operative Production," by Henry Vivian; new editions of "The Co-operative Ideal," by the Bishop of Durham, and "Sixty Years of Co-operation," by Miss Sybella Gurney. Many useful leaflets have also been circulated during the year.

The Labour Association has lost an influential and generous supporter in the late Duke of Westminster, who, amongst the many good causes with which his name was identified, included that of Labour Co-partnership.

The provincial centres of the Association have done good work during the year. Upon Mr. J. Whitburn, the secretary of the Newcastle centre, fell most of the work in connection with the organisation of the very successful conference there. Mr. Halstead, the secretary of the Lancashire and Yorkshire centre, has been very active. At the Derby centre the Association has lost the valuable help of Mr. B. Williams as secretary, he having moved to Leicester to take up the post of manager of the Leicester Co-operative Printing Society. The centre has, however, succeeded in getting Mr. Levick to fill the position, and excellent work is being done. The doings of the year have been, from time to time, recorded in Labour Co-partnership but in accordance with our custom we give a brief summary.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE LABOUR ASSOCIATION.

This was held at the Crystal Palace, on August 17th, Mr. F. Maddison, M.P., President for the year, being in the chair. He delivered a most interesting and inspiring address, in the course of which he said:—"It is in the workshop that men must find social salvation. Most of the acute problems surge round there, and none is more perplexing than the remedy for that unrest and dissatisfaction now existing, which will continue to spread as education increases. To seek to find a solution in a class war is anarchy, and to look for it in the absorption of the individual in the collective organisation we call the State is to experiment with extremely doubtful, and in many respects dangerous compounds. Co-partnership more effectually ministers to the unrest born of higher conceptions of the mission of labour. It aims at the common good, through the medium of individual effort, and is a standing assertion of the supremacy of the worker over himself. This must satisfy all but the idler and the unruly, for whom there is no place in the commonwealth of industry."

Earl Grey was elected president for the year, and Mr. Gerald Balfour was added to the list of vice-presidents. A vote of sympathy was passed with the family of the late M. Charles Robert, whose place as an advocate of profit-sharing it will be difficult indeed to fill.

The report and balance sheet, after being discussed in detail, were adopted.

THE EXHIBITION OF CO-OPERATIVE PRODUCTIONS AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

This was opened on August 15th by the Right Hon. Gerald Balfour, M.P., Mr. Maddison, M.P., presiding. Those present included Lady Betty Balfour, Miss Sybella Gurney, Lord Plunkett; Lord Monteagle, Mr. Holyoake, the Earl of Stamford, Mr. R. A. Anderson (of the Irish Agricultural Organisation Society), and others. Mr. Balfour was well received, and delivered a very interesting address. He laid great stress on the importance of working men learning to appreciate organising ability and paying for it.

The exhibition was an improvement on previous years, and it again included machinery and workers from co-operative workshops illustrating the manufacture of different articles.

On the afternoons of the 15th and 16th the usual conferences and teas, attended by employees and committeemen of stores and the representatives of productive societies, were organised.

DEVELOPMENTS IN CO-OPERATIVE PRODUCTION.

The co-partnership societies registered during the year include The Basford Wickerwork Manufacturers, Ltd., manufacturers of all kinds of chairs, perambulators, wickerwork carriages, &c.; The Ideal Clothiers, Ltd.; The Kirkby-in-Ashfield Manufacturers, Ltd., hosiery manufacturers; The Leeds Builders; The Derby Builders; The Derby Printers; The North Shields Builders; The Leeds Plasterers; The Leicester Basket Makers; and The Huddersfield Brush Manufacturers. An interesting summary of the Registered Rules of these new Societies is given in Labour Co-partnership from time to time. The Huddersfield Brush Manufacturers have an exceptional restriction in the limit of £5 as the maximum that any worker may capitalise out of his profit. We hope the Society may see its way to remove this limit, so that the worker may be free to acquire a substantial proportion of the capital needed to employ him.

The Canterbury Co-operative Tanners, Ltd., against our advice, converted itself into a joint-stock company, and has since gone into liquidation.

A number of Societies have, during the year, consulted the Association, and its advice has, we believe, been found very helpful.

For some time past it has become evident that much good might be done if the Association was kept in closer touch with the accounts and business relations of the younger productive societies. Some of the active workers for the Association think that a special qualified person should be appointed to give his whole time to this work, viz., supervising accounts and advising on the business generally. To begin with, it would no doubt be costly, but ultimately, if a fixed charge for auditing and accounting were made, a considerable proportion of the expense of such a man ought to be made up. Now not infrequently the Association is consulted when it is too late, or is never consulted at all, but left in ignorance of the position of affairs. If such a man were appointed, no doubt some of the larger and more flourishing societies would be prepared to place their auditing in his hands. Perhaps the Labour Association and Productive Federation might usefully take joint action in this matter.

We are pleased to record continued growth of the movement in Ireland. On the 31st March, 1899, after five years' work, the number of societies was 374, with a membership of 37,000, and at the present moment there are about 440 societies, with about 50,000 members, mostly farmers. These societies comprise Creameries, Auxiliary Creameries, Agricultural Societies, Poultry Societies, Home Industries Societies, and two Trading Federations. The trade of these societies last year was pretty nearly three quarters of a million sterling.

THE CO-OPERATIVE CONGRESS.

The Annual Congress of the Co-operative Union was held at Cardiff in Whitsun week. A number of members of the Labour Association were present representing societies, and took part in the discussions. The subjects dealt with included "Old Age Pensions for Co-operators," "Direct Representation of Co-operators in Parliament," and "The Owen Memorial." The two old age pension schemes submitted to Congress were referred to the District Associations for discussion. The resolution in favour of direct representation of co-operators in Parliament was rejected by a large majority.

The exhibition of co-operative productions was opened by Mr. Alfred Thomas, M.P., who expressed himself strongly in favour of the principle of labour co-partnership. Our secretary (Mr. Vivian) was elected at the top of the poll on the Southern Sectional Board of the Co-operative Union, and has since, at the request of his colleagues, accepted the position of chairman.

PROPAGANDIST WORK.

This has been carried on with vigour, and a number of very successful conferences have been organised. This part of the work has been reported from time to time in Labour Co-partnership, and only a brief review of the important meetings need be given here.

On July 1st, 1899, Mr. Vivian read a paper on "Co-operative Brotherhood" at the International Council of Women (Industrial Section) in London.

On July 15th a very successful conference was held in the Midlands at Barwell, Mr. Maddison reading a paper on "The Store, the Workshop, and the Trade Union."

On September 2nd Mr. Halstead, the secretary of our Lancashire and Yorkshire centre, read a paper at an important conference held in connection with the Midland Co-operative Festival at Sutton-in-Ashfield.

On October 14th the North of England centre of the Association organised an industrial conference, presided over by Mr. H. Crawford Smith, chairman of the centre. The conference, which was welcomed by the Mayor, was well attended, and the interest in it well maintained throughout the day. Those present included some 400 representatives of workmen's organisations and a large number of employers and public men, among others the Bishop of Newcastle, the Dean of Durham, Sir B. C. Brown, Mr. J. Wilson, M.P., Professor Gurney, Mr. G. B. Hunter, Mr. Hugh Boyle (President of the Northumberland Miners' Association), Mr. Ralph Young (Secretary of the Northumberland Miners' Association), Dr. Vickerman Rutherford, Rev. A. Boot, Rev. R. C. Hughes, Mr. F. Maddison, M.P., Mr. James Stuart, Mr. H. R. Bailey, Councillor Arthur Scott, Rev. W. E. Moll, Mr. Guy Hayler, Mr. W. Bush, Rev. Joseph Rorke, Mr. George Livesey, Mr. W. Watson-Armstrong, Councillors J. C. Laird, J. Beattie, W. R. Plummer, J. F. Weidner, R. Flowers, J. H. Rodgers, G. G. Archibald, F. Elliott, W. Cowell, Mr. A. Henderson, Mr. T. Shotton, Rev. Canon Moore Ede, Rev. H. C. Windley, Mr. Wigham Richardson, Mr. J. Whitburn. A full report of the proceedings, including the very interesting papers read and speeches made, has been published by the Labour Association. The conference was preceded by a public meeting in the Town Hall, presided over by Earl Grey, at which the Bishop of Durham gave an inspiring address.

On Saturday, December 16th, the half-yearly meeting of the Labour Association was held at Bolton. At the morning sitting, about 150 representatives being present in the Co-operative Hall, a paper was read by the Hon. T. A. Brassey on "Can Labour Co-partnership furnish a Satisfactory Solution of Industrial Problems?" The afternoon meeting was held in the Bolton Parish Schoolroom, some 400 representatives being present. Mr. Vivian read a paper on "Co-operative Stores and Co-partnership." An interesting discussion followed both papers. The thanks of the Association are due to the directors and officials of the Bolton Co-operative Society for the very kind reception they gave. The conference was preceded by a public meeting on the Friday evening, at which the Bishop of Manchester and Mr. George Harwood, M.P., and others spoke.

On Saturday, March 10th, a well attended conference was organised at Sutton-in-Ashfield, at which Mr. Vivian read a paper on "Co-operative Production in the Midlands." Those present were much interested in visiting the premises of the newly-established co-partnership business at Kirkby, viz., the Kirkby-in-Ashfield Manufacturers, Limited.

On April 21st, with the permission of the Warden and residents, a very representative meeting was organised at the Passmore Edwards' Settlement, Tavistock Place, W.C., Mr. Litchfield, secretary of the National Deposit Friendly Society, presiding. Mr. Vivian delivered an address on "Labour in Association," illustrating his subject with limelight views. The address was much appreciated, and Mr. Passmore Edwards, in moving a vote of thanks, expressed his hearty approval of the work. Amongst those present might be mentioned Mr. N. P. Gilman, of U.S.A., the well known writer on profit sharing; Dr. Hans Müller, a co-operative leader from Switzerland; Mr. H. W. Wolff, and others.

On May 12th Mr. Vivian read a paper at an industrial conference at Norwich on "Co-operative Production," many delegates from trades unions being present.

The Labour Association again organised a conference in connection with the Co-operative Congress. The conference was held on Friday, June 1st, at the University College, Cardiff, and was well attended. Mr. Herbert M. Thompson presided, and speeches were made by Mr. Holyoake, Mr. F. Maddison, M.P., Mr. N. P. Gilman, Mr. D. A. Thomas, M.P., Mr. Aneurin Williams, and others. We are indebted to Mr. S. Chapman, of the Cardiff University, for his kind help in organising this conference. Those present included many representative co-operators and labour leaders.

The work of the Lancashire and Yorkshire centre is still progressing in its various branches. Its attempt to organise a group of co-operators at the Oxford University Extension Summer Meeting proved a great success, and much interest was aroused in co-partnership work among the members of the party. The secretary of the centre gave an address on the subject at St. John's College, and the members of the party took an active and prominent part in the general discussions of the students. The large conference and public meeting held in connection with the half-yearly meeting at Bolton, and already referred to, was organised through this centre. A large amount of literature has been circulated among co-operators and the public generally through the agency of the centre. The secretary has also given from forty to fifty lectures and addresses in the large towns on industrial and co-operative subjects. A considerable portion of these were courses of lectures to which classes for further dealing with the subject, and for the recommending of books and the giving of subjects for essay work to students, were attached. Prizes were in some cases given by the societies engaging the lecturer, to students who wrote the best essays. This kind of co-operative education needs encouragement, and the steady increase in the demand for these industrial lectures and the more definite class work makes the future promising. Very good essay work has been done by some of the students who attended the lectures and the classes.

During the year detail organising work has gone on in connection with various co-operative and other societies for the furtherance of Labour Association objects. Closer contact with local committees is making the real objects of the Association more intimately known among co-operators and others, and the cause is being built up by addition of both society and individual members to the Association. And the rise of new societies where its principles are applied, at Huddersfield, Manchester, Blackpool, and other places in the Lancashire and Yorkshire district, shows that the work of the centre is telling for good in the spread of the principles of Labour Co-partnership.

Our Monthly Journal gives a more detailed record of the lectures and addresses given and conferences organised, but the following list of places visited during 1899-1900 may be of interest :—

BLANDFORD SCHOLARSHIPS.

Through the generosity of a member of the Labour Association, Mr. Thomas Thornton, we have been enabled to offer two prizes for essays on "Co-operative Production." These prizes will be connected with the late Mr. Blandford's name, and will consist partly in money, £12 each, to meet the expenses of a journey to visit co-operative workshops, and partly in books, to be presented to the two successful essayists when they have returned from their journey, and furnished to the donors a satisfactory description of its results.

Mr. James Bonar, LL.D., has kindly undertaken to examine the essays, and his award will be final. It is hoped that these scholarships will focus the study of many of the thoughtful in our movement, particularly young men, upon the problem connected with co-operative production, and enable those who win them to add to the sum of co-operative knowledge.

THE JOURNAL.

Labour Co-partnership has, during the year, considerably improved its circulation, and has proved a valuable means of making the views and work of the Labour Association better known. It will be seen from the accounts that we are now nearly making both ends meet. Most of the co-partnership businesses now realise the value of the journal to the movement, and gladly give us their co-operation. It is hoped that the very few that do not help may soon see their way to join in the work. With increased support much more might be done, but we feel it is a wise policy to only take those steps which our means permit.

Many societies help the journal by advertising it on their balance sheets. We hope this may soon become general, with productive societies at any rate.

There is still considerable room for improvement in the way in which some societies forward news of their doings. May we suggest that one member of the committee or some other person in close touch with a society's doings should be allotted the work of sending on news of developments and progress. It is not that there is any unwillingness to send news, but there is need for a definite person being asked to take the responsibility of doing it.

We wish to express the indebtedness of the Labour Association to Miss Gurney for the labour she has given as editor, and to Mr. A. K. Connell for kindly taking charge of the journal during Miss Gurney's absence abroad.

The fifth volume of the journal, with a carefully prepared index, has been issued by the Association, and should prove useful to students of industrial questions.

CONCLUSION.

We wish again to thank the many friends who have during the year rendered help to the Association. We are proud to know that amid the party strife of all kinds which seems to be inseparably bound up with modern life, the Labour Association has been successful in uniting so many people, drawn from all sections of the community, and holding the most diverse and extreme views on other questions, in promoting the industrial reform it advocates.

On the one hand, during the year we know that our propaganda has arrested the attention of several influential employers, and that they are favourably disposed towards our principles, and are working to create circumstances favourable to their adoption. On the other hand, thousands of workmen have attended our conferences or listened to our lectures, and many are, as a result, talking with their fellows as to the possibility of action. We desire to more than maintain our activity and influence, and invite the support of all who sympathise with our efforts.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE LABOUR ASSOCIATION.

Departing from the custom in previous years of only giving an account of the Annual Meeting in the following year's report, we herewith give a short notice of the Annual Meeting at which the foregoing report was adopted.

The Meeting was held at the Crystal Palace on Thursday, August 16th, 1900, Earl Grey (the retiring President) being in the chair. The President opened the meeting with an instructive and inspiring address. This has been issued by the Association as a pamphlet, and will be sent to all members.

REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.—The printed draft of the Report and Balance Sheet prepared by the Committee was discussed in detail. In the discussion, Mr. Williams supported the suggestion made in the report that a qualified person should be appointed to advise young productive societies, particularly with regard to their accounts.

Mr. Williams, as treasurer, and Mr. Cooper, as auditor, testified to the excellent way in which the accounts of the Association were kept. Mr. G. J. Holyoake drew attention to the principles of co-partnership among private firms, and suggested that information should be given in the report concerning this progress. The report and balance sheet were adopted.

OFFICERS AND COMMITTEE.—On the motion of Mr. F. Maddison, M.P., seconded by Mr. Ludlow, Mr. Thomas Burt, M.P., was elected president for the ensuing year. Mr. Ludlow was re-elected hon. legal adviser, Mr. Aneurin Williams hon. treasurer, and Mr. H. Vivian was re-appointed secretary. The names of Major-General Sir F. Maurice, R.A., Mr. James Bonar, LL.D., and Mr. Joseph Craven were added to the list of vice-presidents, and Miss Linnell, [REDACTED] and Mr. L. R. Ensor were added to the Executive.

Mr. Holyoake moved a resolution expressing regret at the death of the Lord Chief Justice, Lord Russell of Killowen, and referred to his good work in connection with the agitation against illicit commissions. The motion was adopted.

The proceedings closed with a hearty vote of thanks to Earl Grey for his valuable services as president for the past year, during which he had unspareingly devoted his time and energies to the work of the Association.
